Media

School Based Medial Credentials

The AIA is rolling out a new approach to school-based media for the 2018-19 school year. Member schools will be mailed a number of school-based media credentials. These will be used in lieu of the school-based media list previously located on aiaonline.org. Each school's athletic director will receive an envelope the first week of September with these credentials and an explanation of the process.

Media Policy

A media policy has been developed by the AIA to go over proper media procedures for both school-based media and outside entities. It puts in writing many of the ideals that have been established over the years through practice. Please review the new policy to see what may apply to the member schools, and what member schools should expect from the working media attending their events.

Media Policy: Click Here

Media Rights Agreement

All school-based media outlets and outside entities are now required to submit a media rights agreement for each round/event its plans on broadcasting during the postseason only. Many protocols have not changed from previous years. But like the media policy, it puts in writing many of the ideals that have been established over the years through practice, as well as puts in place rules governing the contract itself. Please review the media rights agreement to see what is expected of all media agencies when covering postseason events.

Childhelp

Many think that roughhousing and "tough love" is just part of being involved in sports. In today's world, the line between pushing an athlete to do their best, abuse and bullying can be blurred. It is the responsibility of adults and the athletic community to ensure student-athletes are protected, on and off the field. Childhelp Speak Up Be Safe for Athletes prevention education raises much-needed awareness of abuse in athletics. The campaign exists to promote the safe physical, emotional, educational and spiritual development of youth athletes. It is designed to teach children and also to aid coaches, educators, and parents in providing secure environments where students can reach their ultimate potential. The first safety rule of Childhelp Speak Up Be Safe for athletes, "It's MY body," teaches students how to speak up if they feel uncomfortable with a peer athlete or even a coach. Kids should know, a bathing suit covers what is private. There should be no private, secret touching or crossing personal boundaries.
